

Staying Active & Exercising with Osteoporosis

Being active and exercising are important ways to help manage osteoporosis, lower our risk of falling, and to protect our bones. A Physiotherapist leads this class and they will talk about:

- Why it is good to stay active and exercise with osteoporosis.
- Moving safely while being active and exercising.
- How much and what kind of exercises to do to keep bones healthy and strong.

Note: This is an information session only. Participants will not be exercising in this class.
